The structure is 11 ft x 11 ft x 11 ft in recognition of the origins of Veterans Day and the end of WWI on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month.

TOP OF CUBE

The structure and interior monument sit on angle at the site for two reasons.

First, to create an experience that does not have a definitive front or back and gives equal recognition to each branch of the military. The wrap-around lettering of "Land of the Free Because of the Brave" reinforces this concept.

Second, the structure is positioned to maximize the natural lighting from the setting sun during the month of November.

The wreath, used as a symbol of honor, is inspired by the native California Black Oak found in the mountains of San Diego County.

Materials and colors are selected to compliment the natural surrounding environment, and subdued tones were purposefully chosen to create a calming and reflective experience
